

LOCAL STUDIES & ARCHIVES EDUCATION

DELIVERING DIFFERENTLY

Welcome back! As schools return, our services are looking at ways that we can still support and stimulate your learning in a different way.

Tameside Cultural Services Education Team have been looking at how we can use our years of experience, resources and collections to support schools on your return.

Local Studies and Archives offers so many possibilities, connect with the past, and create new memories while studying the old ones. We hold a wide range of original source material from approximately 1200 onwards - that's a lot of history! Resources available to schools include maps, books, local newspapers, photographs, registers and indexes.

Our Learning Team has developed a programme which offer participants a wide range of activities that are accessible, educational, fun and inspiring. Whilst we are all working differently we have put together an offer that will continue to allow you to access what we do, but in a different way.

We want to use our experience to develop something that genuinely works and helps teachers and educators during what could be a difficult transition.

"It's been fantastic to have the kids see how their streets have changed, it makes the past feel so much more real when it's local."

Please feel free to contact us with any queries or just to have a chat about how we can help over the coming months.
